Daniel Stone House
Mount Pleasant
Private

1880's

The Daniel Stone House is a frame three story second Empire residence which faces north overlooking the village of Mount Pleasant. The principal facade is five bays wide. The main entrance is located in the third bay. It consists of an arched panelled doorway with deep architrave moulding and single light glass transom. The door is framed by five pane side lights. Occupying the remaining bays on the first level and second level are 2/2 windows framed with original black wooden louvered shutters. On the third level five decoratively trimmed pedimented dormer windows occupy the five bays. The building is covered by a mansard roof made of slate in a patterned style.

The Daniel Stone House is a significant structure both architecturally and historically. It is a fine example of a Second Empire style interpreted in clapboarding and fastened with wooden pegs. Historically it was built and occupied by a person of local and county significance. Dr. Daniel Stone was an important citizen of the Mount Pleasant area, acting as the chief practitioner in the community for forty-six years, and a man well known in the county for his medical service.¹

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Daniel Stone House is a frame three story Second Empire residence which faces north from the south side of Kelly Road in Mount Pleasant.

The principal facade is five bays wide. The main entrance, an arched panelled doorway with deep architrave moulding and single light glass transom is located in the third bay. The door is surrounded on either side by five pane side lights.

Occupying the remaining bays on the first level and each bay on the second level are 2/2 windows framed with original black wooden louvered shutters. On the third level, five decoratively trimmed pedimented dormer windows are found on the principal facade.

A one story frame porch extends across the front of the building. The porch is supported by plain, square columns and plain boxed cornice. The porch structure is covered by a standing seam tin roof.

The windows on the east side of the house have been altered in arrangement. The dormer windows on this and the west side are identical to those on the principal facade. To the rear of the house there is a one story original addition.

The entire building is covered by a mansard roof made of slate in a patterned style. Two original brick chimneys rise from the interior of the structure. The entire structure rests on a stone rubble foundation.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Daniel Stone House, a Second Empire frame dwelling, was built in the early 1880's. Dr. Stone was a prominent local citizen of the village of Mount Pleasant and known throughout the county as one of the oldest Frederick County practitioners having practiced for over forty-six years.¹ Dr. Stone was born in 1839 in Loudoun County, Virginia and came to Frederick County as a young man, where he resided until his death.

The Daniel Stone House is significant both architecturally and historically to the Mount Pleasant area. The structure is a commanding presence on a hilltop overlooking the Mount Pleasant area on the southern exposure, and the surrounding farmland on the northern exposure. Architecturally it is an example of Second Empire structure well interpreted by its builders. Historically it is important as the home of a significant citizen in the history of the Mount Pleasant area.
